

FEATURING

Student Spotlights

The TRiO/CAN center wants to highlight three students who will be transferring in the Fall of 2015. These students have demonstrated resiliency in overcoming academic and personal challenges. We want to congratulate our TRiO/CAN scholars in reaching their goals!

Jessika Ruvalcaba

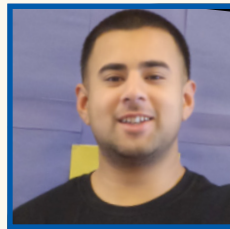

Our first student spotlight is Jessika Ruvalcaba who was born in Van Nuys, CA but grew up in Jalisco, Mexico. Jessika will be transferring to San Jose State University and pursuing a degree in Aviation. Her goal is to become a pilot and travel around the world.

1. One advice you would give future AHC students:

A successful student always follows their dreams, studies hard, maintains a higher GPA, and gets as many questions answered as they can. Allan Hancock College has helped me to finish my lower division classes which is a great help economically because it is more affordable than a four-year university. Think ahead of the game and be an excellent student.

2. What you are most looking forward to transferring to a four-year university?

I am looking forward to transfer to SJSU because it is a great opportunity to acquire my bachelors degree in Aviation major.

Gilberto Rodriguez

Gilberto Rodriguez is from Boyle Heights, CA and went to Roosevelt High School in Los Angeles. He will be transferring to California State University, Northridge in Fall 2015. His goal is to major in Political Science, in hopes of advocating for under-served people in his community.

1. One advice you would give future AHC students:

Understand what is required, the expectations from your teachers and the course. Treat AHC like a four-year university, not like high school. Explore and utilize the most out of the resources provided by Hancock and establish networks and relationships with those you will benefit from. You never know who knows who, and an opportunity will open.

2. What you are most looking forward to transferring to a four-year university?

Going more into depth with my major. To explore, to live, to do more. To grow and to develop more as a student, and actually apply what I learn in my major to better serve my community.

Aldo Chavez

Aldo Chavez is from Guadalupe, CA and graduated from Righetti High School. He is very excited about transferring to University of California, Santa Cruz to pursue a bachelor's degree in Anthropology.

1. One advice you would give future AHC students:

My advice for incoming AHC students would be to make the most of your time here and participate in activities because the time really flies by. Join programs and meet awesome people. Also, don't worry about being undecided about a major because you'll have plenty of time to try out different areas you might be interested in. But most importantly, enjoy your time here at AHC.

2. What you are most looking forward to transferring to a four-year university?

What I look forward to the most about transferring to a 4-year university is the new experience living in the Bay Area. I've lived all of my life in Guadalupe, so it'll be a different experience living in Santa Cruz. More than anything, I am looking forward to furthering my studies in anthropology.

Congratulations

CLASS OF 2015!
